POETRY.

Wrong not the Laboring Poor.

WRONG not the laboring poor, who live in Wrong not your humble fellow-worms, ye proud.
For God will not the poor man's wrong forgive, But hear his plea, and have his plea allowed.

O be not like the vapors, splendor seek That spring from the green breast, usurp the sky, Then spread around contagion black and cold, Till all who mourn the dead prepare to die!

No! imitate the gorgeous clouds, that rise, Freighted with blis, from river, vale and plain,
The thankful clouds, that beautify the skies, Then fill the lap of earth with fruit and grain.

Yet! emulate the mountain and the flood,
That trade in blessings with the mighty deep!
Till southed to peace, and satisfied with good, Man's heart be happy in a child's sleep.

THE STOLEN KISS.

Oh, quit—quit—quit—now don't you—I really wish you wouldn't—Oh, quit—will you? Oh, quit—Come now, can't you be still?

I'll cry now if you don't let me go—I will, I declare I will—Oh, quit—now—behave—get out—Come now, can't you be still?

I'll get mad now, if you don't—I'll slap your jaw your self;— Pop—now take that—and that,
And go and behave yourself.

There now you've got it—oh, be still—You shan't have any more—You've got—oh, take your leave away—What now man's got before.

Once more—there—that will do. Oh, don't—You've ruffled up my hair—If you'll quit, I'll give you one—Now take it—there—there—there!

From the Ohio Statesman.

Shrubbery—Gardening, Etc.

We wish to be pertentious about gardening—now while it is called to-day. This is the month to plant shade trees, if you intend to do it at all. The early part of the month is preferable. A dwelling, especially in the country, where trees may be so easily obtained, is a bald and unattractive place, without the cool shadow of foliage for the summer solstice.
Not as a mere matter of value, in money, is it desirable to decorate the land with trees and shrubs; although with any man of sense and taste, these do enhance the value of property; but as a matter of comfort, delight and home attractiveness.

It takes little experience to ornament; all that is required is a little taste, judiciously expended. Taste expended, add to itself.

It may be necessary first to look after the useful, and then the beautiful. Well, if so, read the directions below, from the American Farmer. They are intended for the present time.

Sowing Seeds of Various Kinds.—The moment the frost is out of the ground manure a pit in the border of your garden, facing the south, dig in the manure, rake finely, and then sow seeds of early Cabbage, of different sorts, Cauliflowers, Broccoli, Tomatoes, Egg Plants, and Lettuce, rake the seeds in lightly, and compress the earth around the seeds by putting it with the back of the shovel or spade.

Peas.—Get your early peas in as soon as the ground can be worked and put in good order.

Beets.—Prepare a bed for early beets by giving the land a liberal dressing with a rich compost, or well rotted manure, dig it in to the full depth of the spade, rake finely, lay drills two feet apart, one inch deep, drill in your seed very thinly, cover and pat down the earth. When the plants are a few inches high, work between the rows with a hoe, and pull up the weeds and grass between the plants with the hand.

Onions.—The time to sow Onion seed is as early as the frost is out of the ground. Many think that Onions cannot be grown from the seed in one year. This is not the case; we have raised, and seen raised, by others, fine Onions grown by the seeds as we ever did from seeds.

Early Potatoes.—This excellent root cannot be planted too soon after frost is out of the ground.

Rhubarb or Pie Plants.—Set out a dozen or so Rhubarb plants early this month. Its fine quality as a material for pies, should commend its cultivation to your favor.

Shrubbery of all kinds.—Shrubbery of all kinds may now be trimmed. When trimmed, a little manure should be slightly dug in around each bush, but not so deep as to injure root.

Strawberries.—Clean out your strawberry beds early this month; give them a moderate dressing of well rotted manure, which should be spaded in a few inches, say three inches in depth, rake the ground; then dust over it a mixture of equal parts of ashes and salt, and lay long straw between the rows. Turner's bark will answer instead of the straw.

If the weather should be dry, your strawberry bed should be watered every evening, or every other evening. After the vines are in bloom, the utmost care must be observed to hold the nose or nozzle down to the ground to avoid washing the fatina from the flowers.

QUINCES LOVE SALT.—The quince tree seems to have a constitutive fondness for salt.
We have never seen, says the Horticulturist, such superb specimens of this fruit, and such a luxuriance of the trees, as at Newport, R. I., on the sea coast. A gentleman who noticed this fact several years ago, told me, lately, that he had profited by the hint in giving to each of his trees a top dressing of two quarts of coarse salt every spring. By scattering the salt over the surface, it dissolves slowly, and does no harm whatever to the roots but makes both foliage and fruit much more healthy.

SELLING A WIFE.—A dashing young negro from the U. S., came over to Toronto, Canada, and married the daughter of a respectable colored citizen, but receiving no money with her as he expected, went off to the Southern States and there sold his wife into slavery.
The villain's pretext was, that he had rich relations in the South, and the unsuspecting wife was permitted to become the dupe of his treach-ery. The father of the young woman, who is now left to find his daughter, and probably will have to purchase her in the slave market of the South.

Civil and Religious Liberty.

At a meeting of the Republican Society, held in New York, on the 10th inst., the following resolutions were adopted:

"The Union of Republicans—May it be perfect as the conspiracy of despots—more endoring—and nobly triumphant in the liberation of mankind."

To this toast the Irish patriot and exile, Michael Dwyer, Esq., responded as follows:

His remarks have another object, to excite the prejudices of Irishmen against Me
